Innovative Product Design
Engineers are faced with issues that require the ability to use scientific fact to back up an ethical viewpoint. In this module, students will look at ethical dilemmas associated with product design and release.